

America's Unknown Dead Sleeps Under Wide and Starry Sky of Homeland

GREAT MEN FROM MANY NATIONS DO HONOR TO WARRIOR

All Day Long, America Pours Out Its Heart in Pride and Glory For Nameless Hero

War Condemned

There Must Be, There Shall Be, the Voice of Civilization Against It, Harding Avers

(In response to many inquiries, the "unknown dead" stories have been written for The Associated Press service by Kirke L. Simpson, a member of the Washington staff since 1913.)

Washington, Nov. 11.—Under the wide and starry skies of his own homeland, America's unknown dead from France sleeps tonight. A soldier home from the war.

Alone he lies in the narrow cell of live stone that guards his body; but his soul has entered into the spirit that is America. Where-ever liberty is held close in men's hearts, the honor and glory and the pledge of high endeavor poured out over this nameless one of fame will be told and sung by Americans for all time.

Scrolled across the marble arch of the memorial raised to American soldier and sailor dead everywhere, which stands like a monument behind his tomb, runs this legend:

"We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

Harding Echoes High Resolve.

The words were spoken by the martyred Lincoln over the dead at Gettysburg. And today, with voice strong and with determination and ringing with deep emotion, another president echoed that high resolve over the coffin of the dead soldier who died for the flag in France.

Great men in the world's affairs heard that high purpose reiterated by the man who stands at the head of the American people. Tomorrow, they will gather in the city that stands almost in the shadow of the new American shrine of liberty dedicated today. They will talk of peace, of the ending of the havoc of war. They will speak of the war in France that brought death to comrades of all nations by the hundreds of thousands.
And in their ears when they meet must ring President Harding's declaration today beside that flag-wrapped casket, honor-laden bier:

"There must be, there shall be, the commanding voice of a conscious civilization against armed warfare."

All day long the nation poured out its heart in pride and glory for the nameless American. Before the first crash of the minute gun roared its keel for the dead from the shadow of the Washington monument, the people who claim him as their own were trooping out to do him honor.

Not Sorrow, But Pride.

As he was carried past through the ranks of humanity that lined Pen-sylvania avenue, a solemn, reverent hush held the living walls. Yet there was no such of sorrow as of high pride. In it all, a pride beyond the reach of shouting and the clamor that richer, less sacred moments in life.

Soldiers and sailors and marines played their part in the thrilling spectacle as the cortege rolled along. And just behind the casket with its faded French flowers on the draped leader of a hundred millions in whose name he was chief mourner at this hour. Beside him strode the man under whom the fallen hero had lived and died in France—General Pershing, wearing the single medal of victory, as every American soldier must wear as his only decoration.

Then, row upon row, came the men who lead the nation today, or have guided its destinies before. They were all there, judges, senators, representatives, highest officers of every military arm of government, and a thronging little group of the nation's most valorous sons, the Medal of Honor men.

Behind these came the carriage in which rode Woodrow Wilson. For that dead man's sake, the former President had put aside his dream of ascendancy to parade his physical weakness and raised health, perhaps life, to appear among the mourners for the fallen. There was handclapping and a cheer here and there for the man in the carriage, a tribute to the spirit that brought him to honor the nation's nameless hero whose commander-in-chief he had been.

Procession Reaches Cemetery.

To the tomb it marched on, always between the human borders of the way of victory the nation had made for itself of the long avenue; on over the old bridge that spans the Potomac, on up the long hill to Fort Meyer and at last to the gate of the great cemetery, beyond where soldier and sailor folk lay asleep by the thousands.

There the lustrous guns of the artillery swung aside, the cavalry drew their horses out of the long line, and left to the foot soldiers and the sailors and marines the last stage of the journey.

Ahead, the white marble of the amphitheatre gleamed through the trees.
It stands crowning the slope of the hills that sweep upward from the river, and just across was Washington, its clustered buildings and monuments to great dead who have gone before, a moving picture in the autumn haze.

People in thousands were moving about the great circle of the amphitheatre. The great ones to whom places had been given in the sacred enclosure, and the plain folk who trudged the long way just to glimpse the pageant from afar, were finding their places. Everywhere within the pillared enclosure, bright uniforms of foreign soldiers appeared. They were laden with the jewels of rank and merit, worn to honor an American private soldier greater than any there in the majesty of his sacrifice; in the tribute his honors paid to all Americans who died.

Down below the platform placed for the casket, in a stone vault, lay wreaths and garlands brought from England's king and guarded by British soldiers. To them came the British ambassador in the full uniform of his rank, to bid them keep these tributes from overseas safe against that hour.

Great Men Were There.

Above the platform gathered men whose names ring through history—Briand, Foch, Beatty, Balfour, Jacques, Diaz and others in a brilliant array of place and power. They were followed by others, Baron Kaio from Japan, the Italian statesmen and officers; by the "nobles from all countries" gathered here for tomorrow's conference, and by some of the older figures in American life, too old to walk beside the approaching funeral train.

Down around the circling pillars, the marble boxes piled with distinguished men and women, was a cluster of shattered men from army hospitals, accompanied by uniformed nurses.
A surpliced choir took its place to await the dead.

Faint and distant, the silver strains of a military band stole into the air; white bowls of the amphitheatre. The slow cadences of a funeral march grew clearer and the roll and mallet of the muffled drums.

At the arch, where the choir waited the hero comrades of the dead lifted his casket down, and followed by the generals and the admirals who had walked beside him from the capitol, he was carried to the place of honor.
Ahead moved the white-robed singers, chanting solemnly. Carefully the casket was placed above the banked flowers and the marine band played sacred melodies until the moment the President and Mrs. Harding stepped to their places beside the casket, then the crashing, triumphant chords of the Star Spangled Banner swept the gathering to its feet again.

A prayer, carried out over the crowd by amplifiers so that no word was missed, took a moment or two, then a sharp clear note of the bugle rang "attention" and for two minutes the nation stood at pause for the dead, just at high noon. No sound broke the quiet as all stood with bowed heads. It was much as though a mighty hand had checked the world in full course. Then the band sounded in a mighty chorus and rolled up the words of "America" from the lofty within and without the great open hall of valor.

Jeweled Emblems for Unknown.

Then the foreign officers who stand highest among the soldier or sailor of their flag came one by one to the casket to place gold and jeweled emblems for the brave above the breast of the dear. Already, as the great prayer ended, the President had set the American seal of admiration for the valiant, the nation's love for brave deeds, and the courage that defies death, upon the casket. Side by side, he laid the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross. And below set in place with reverent hands, gray the folds of foreign honors, the Victoria cross, never before laid upon the breast of any but those who had served the English flag; all the highest honors of France and Belgium and Italy and Rumania and Czechoslovakia and Poland. To General Jacques of Belgium it remained to add his own touch to these honors. He took from the breast of his own tunic the Medal of Valor, pinned there by the Belgian king, tore it with a sweeping gesture, and tenderly bestowed it on the unknown American warrior.

Through the religious services that followed and the prayers, the swelling crowd sat motionless until it rose to join in the old, consoling words of "Rock of Ages," and the last rite for the dead was at hand. Led by his hero-bearers from the stage, the unknown was carried in his casket, the poor, simple coffin, out to the wide sweep of the terrace. The bearers laid the sleeper down above the crypt in which had been placed a little of the soil of France. The dust his blood helped redeem from alien hands will mingle with his dust as three marches by.

Indians Pay Their Tribute.

The simple words of the burial ritual were said by Bishop Brent, flowers from war mothers of America and England were laid in place. For the Indians of America, Chief Plenty Cocks came to call upon the Great Spirit of the Redmen with gesture and chant and tribal tongue that the dead should not have died in vain, that war might end, peace be purchased by such blood as this. Upon the casket he laid the coup stick of his tribal office and the feathered war bonnet from his own head. Then the casket, with its weight of honor, was lowered into the crypt.

A rocking blast of gunfire rang from the woods. The glittering circle of bayonets stiffened to a salute to the dead. Again the guns shouted their message of honor and farewell, again they boomed out, a loyal comrade was being laid to his last, long rest.

High and clear, true in the echoes of the guns, a bugle lifted the old, old notes of taps, the lullaby for the living soldier, in death his requiem. Long ago, some forgotten soldier poet caught its meaning clear and set it down that soldiers everywhere might know its message as they sank to rest:

"Fades the light;
And afar
Goeth day, cometh night.
And a star Leadeth all, speedeth all To their rest."

The guns roared again in the national salute. He was home, the unknown, to sleep forever among his own.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS AT UNKNOWN SOLDIER'S GRAVE

"Mr. Secretary of War and Ladies and Gentlemen: We are met today to pay the impersonal tribute. The name of him whose body lies before us took flight with his immovable soul. We know not whence he came, but only that his death marks him with the everlasting glory of an American dying for his country."

He might have come from any one of millions of American homes. Some mother gave him in her love and tenderness and with him her most cherished hopes. Hundreds of mothers are wondering today, having a touch of solace in the possibility that the nation stood at pause for the body of one who bore to live and die, if need be, for the republic. If we give room to fancy, a scene of sympathetic chords are touched, for in this body there once glowed the soul of an American, with the aspirations and ambitions of a citizen who cherished life and its opportunities. He may have been a native or an adopted son; that matters little, because they glorified the same loyalty, they sacrificed alike.

We do not know his station in life, because from every station came the patriotic response of the free millions.
I recall the days of creating armies and the departing of caravans which braved the murderous seas to reach the battle lines for maintained nationality and preserved civilization.

The service flag marked mansion and cottage alike and riches were common to all homes in the consciousness of service to country.

Glory in His Death.

"We do not know the empyrean of his birth, but we do know the glory of his death. He died for his country and greater devotion hath no man than this. He died unquestioning, un-complaining, with faith in his heart and hope on his lips that his country should triumph and its civilization survive. As a typical soldier of this representative democracy, he fought and died, believing in the indisputable justice of his country's cause. Conscious of the world's upheaval, appraising the magnitude of war the like of which had never horrified humanity before, perhaps he believed his to be a service destined to change the tide of human affairs."

"In the death gloom of gas, the burning of shells and rain of bullets, men face more intimately the great God over all, their souls are aflame and consciousness expands and hearts are searched. With the din of battle, the glow of conflict and the supreme trial of courage, come involuntarily the hurried appraisal of life and the contemplation of death's great mystery. On the threshold of eternity, pondering the highest function of government is to give its citizens the security of peace, the opportunity to achieve, and the pursuit of happiness."

"The loftiest tribute we can bestow today—the heroically earned tribute—fashioned in deliberate conviction, out of unclouded thought, neither shadowed by remorse nor made vain by fancies, is the commitment of this republic to an advancement never made before. If American achievement is a cherished pride at home, if our unselfishness among nations is all we wish to be, and ours is a helpful example in the world, then let us give of our influence and strength, yes, of our actions and convictions, to put mankind on a little higher plane, exulting and exalting, with war's distressing and depressing tragedies barred from the stage of righteous civilization."

Reason and Righteousness.

"There have been a thousand deferences justly and patriotically made; a thousand offenses which reason and righteousness ought to have atoned for. Let us beseech all men to join us in seeking the rule under which reason and righteousness shall prevail."

Defenders Living, Defenders Dead.

"On such an occasion as this, amid such a scene, our thoughts alternate between defender living and defender dead. A grateful reprieve will be worthy of them both. Our part is to atone for the losses of heroic dead by making a better republic for the living."

"Sleeping in these hallowed grounds are thousands of Americans who have given their blood for the baptism of freedom and its maintenance, armed exponents of the nation's conscience.
It is better and nobler for their deeds.
Burial here is rather more than a sign of the government's favor, it is a suggestion of a tomb in the heart of the nation, sorrowing for its noble dead."

"Today's ceremonies proclaim that the hero unknown is not unknown.
We gather him to the nation's breast, within the shadow of the capital, the towering shaft that honors Washington, the great father and of the exquisite monument to Lincoln, the martyred savior. Here the inspirations of yesterday and the conscience of today forever unite to make the republic worthy of his death for flag and country."

"Ours are lofty resolutions today, as with tribute to the dead we consecrate ourselves to a better order for the living. With all my heart, I wish we might say to the defenders who survive, to mothers who sorrow, to widows and children who mourn, that no such sacrifice shall be asked again."

"It was my fortune recently to see a demonstration of modern warfare. It is no longer a conflict of chivalry, no more a test of militant manhood. It is only cruel, deliberate, scientific destruction. There was no contending army. Only the theoretical defense of a hypothetical objective. But the attack was made with all the relentless methods of modern destruction. There was the rain of ruin from aircraft, the thunder of artillery, followed by the unspendable devastation wrought by burning shells; there were motors belching their bombs of desolation; machine guns concentrating their leaden storms, there was the infantry advancing, firing and falling—like men with souls sacrificed for the decision. The flying missiles were revealed by illuminating tracers, so that we could note their flight and appraise their deadliness. The air was strewn with tiny flames marking the light of massed destruction; while the effectiveness of the theoretical defense was impressed by the annihilation of dead and wounded among those going forward, undaunted and unheeding.
As this panorama of unutterable destruction visualized the horrors of modern conflict, there grew on me the sense of the failure of a civilization."

TREATY RATIFICATIONS EXCHANGED IN BERLIN

(By The Associated Press.)

Berlin, Nov. 11.—Ratifications of the German-American peace treaty were exchanged here tonight at the foreign office between Ellis Loring Drexel, the American commissioner, and Dr. Karl Wirth, chancellor and minister of foreign affairs.

which can leave its problems for such cruel arbitration. Surely no one in authority, with human attributes and appraisal of the patriotic loyalty of his countrymen, could ask the manhood of the kingdom, empire or republic to make such sacrifice until all reason had failed, until appeal to justice through understanding had been denied until every effort of love and consideration for fellow men had been exhausted, until freedom itself and inviolate honor had been brutally threatened.

"I speak not as a pacifist fearing war, but as one who loves justice and hates war. I speak as one who believes the highest function of government is to give its citizens the security
of peace, the opportunity to achieve,
and the pursuit of happiness."

Reason and Righteousness.

"There have been a thousand deferences justly and patriotically made; a thousand offenses which reason and
righteousness ought to have atoned
for. Let us beseech all men to join us in seeking the rule under which reason
and righteousness shall prevail."

"Standing today on hallowed ground, conscious that all America has halted to share in the tribute of heart and mind and soul to this fellow American, and knowing that the world is noting this expression of the republic's mindfulness, it is fitting to say that his sacrifice and that of the millions dead, shall not be in vain. There must be there shall be, the commanding voice of a conscious civilization against armed warfare."

"As we return this poor clay to its mother soil, garlanded by love and covered with the decorations that only nations can bestow, I can sense the prayers of our people, of all peoples, that this Armistice day shall mark the beginning of a new and lasting era of peace on earth, good will among men. Let me join in that prayer."

"Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen."

"As the President concluded, a clear blue sky spread above the white bow, turned up from the grass hills, below, as though it offered a human tribute of emotion and high feeling to the mystery beyond, into which the lonely sleeper had gone forever. It was as though all the solemn words and chords were lifted up to him there above."

The warming sun rained down its rays on those gathered to do honor to the dead. Its beams struck in beneath the pillars of the colonnade to paint the white arches with dark, glowing shadows over the heads of the great men standing there in tribute.

There was a dramatic moment as the President concluded, when touching on the coming conference in Washington he said it should be the beginning of a better civilization, a more lasting peace, and then ended his address with a recitation of the Lord's prayer, which the thousands joined, their strong, earnest tones rolling up the pledge of faith to the sunlight above.

STRENGTH IS NOT MEASURED BY ARMIES, SAYS HARVEY

London, Nov. 11.—"Today significantly the joining of the past with the future," declared George Harvey, United States ambassador to Great Britain, in an Armistice Day address here tonight.

The occasion of his commemorative discourse was a dinner to him and Mrs.
Harvey given by the English-Speaking union.

In his address, Ambassador Harvey alluded to President Harding's proclamation making the day a national holiday, and pointed out the coincidence of the day's falling on the 50th anniversary of the arrival of the Man-dow.

"On one bank of the Potomac," he said, "in the sacred soil of Arlington cemetery, the body of our unknown soldier now lies peacefully to rest.
On the other side of his historic river, in the capital, for the first time in history, are gathered the foremost statesmen from the uttermost parts of the earth in a common determination to find a way for the distracted peoples of the world to peace and happiness, which constitutes their priceless heritage from the Maker of the Universe.
A memorial to our own patriot dead, a harbinger of hope for all the living such is the true purport of this our Holy Day."

Ambassador Harvey asked rhetorically if history must be forever mainly a narration of warfare.

"The strength of a country is not measured by armies and navies," he declared. "A schoolhouse at a crossroads is more potent ultimately than a dreadnaught of the seas. One little church on a hill is worth a score of regiments."

Eyes of the World Fixed on Opening of Arms Conference

Holds the Power to Turn Whole Tide of Civilization Into New Channels

Confidence Felt

Every Nation Believed to Come With Spirit of Good Will for Every Other

(By The Associated Press.)

Washington, Nov. 11.—With the eyes of all the world fixed happily upon them, the accredited spokesmen of the powers will meet in Washington tomorrow to try to find a way to ease the heavy burden of armaments.

In the historic quest, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and the United States, a group, which, acting together, can turn the whole tide of civilization into new channels, all have pledged a solemn and determined cooperation.

Utmost Confidence Felt.

In addition, China, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands, invited because of their vital interest in the permanent and crucial problems of the Far East, will sit in the conference to complete the circle of those who are to strive for the new day of international relationship.

Outward manifestations of confidence in the success of the negotiations have been none more prominent than that of the decided attitude. Every nation is declared by its leaders to be ready to come to the conference table with a spirit of unqualified good will for every other, and behind there is a great urging (love of world opinion seeking translation into the covenants of permanent friendship).

Among the statesmen and diplomats of the leading nations, the great topic of interest tonight was the address made at Arlington today by President Harding, who summoned the conference into being and who will welcome it to American soil tomorrow. Upon every hand were heard expressions of satisfaction that in paying his tribute to America's soldier dead, the chief executive grasped his opportunity to renew the pledge of the United States to take its full share of leadership in the attainment of a better order.

The American delegation held a final conference today, Secretary Hughes calling them together soon after the ceremonies at Arlington were concluded. The discussions were continued well into the evening.

A Pertinacious Session.

For the most part, tomorrow's opening session, which will be opened by Secretary Hughes, is expected to assume a character quite pertinent. Diplomatic custom generally is expected to assure the selection of Mr. Hughes as permanent chairman and when that and other details of personnel are completed, it is probable adjournment will be taken until Monday.

of the state conference of charities and corrections here to day.

Dr. Abraham Zingher, of the department of health of New York city, declared there would never be a death from diphtheria if proper preventive methods were employed or the disease attacks a person.

Night Reverend Manassah L. Thomas, of the Brooklyn ministry, was elected president.

SOLDIER PREFERENCE IS DEFEATED, FIGURES SHOW

Albany, Nov. 11.—The defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment to give all war veterans the same preference on the civil service list, was declared in the tally from a vote of the state's counties, seven counties, comprising 67 per cent of the state, in a majority of 26,299 against the amendment. Only one of the counties, Chenango, was recorded in favor of the proposition. New York city gave a majority of 22,768 against the amendment.

JUSTICE ANDREW WILL HAVE BIG PLURALITY OVER SCUDDER

Albany, Nov. 11.—Justice William A. Andrews, Republican candidate for associate judge of the court of appeals, probably will have a plurality of between 60,000 and 70,000 over Townsend Scudder, his Democratic opponent, figures thus far compiled indicate.

With 114 election districts missing out of 7,842 in the state, the vote gives:

The President, long a leader of advocate of a world order to minimize the possibilities of war, has played for the success of the Washington conference, according to a message received through unofficial channels from Reger, and to that purpose will celebrate, most probably, Monday morning in the Pauline chapel in the presence of several hundred people, including many Americans resident in Italy.

The celebration of the note of world-wide hope, as voiced in these messages and in the address of the President, constituted a prelude into the spirit of which all of the delegations in Washington seemed to enter with a united heart. Anticipating all of those who will sit in the conference heard the President's intimate at Arlington and devoted the whole of the period of the period of mourning for the unknown American, joining in a sort of international consecration which seemed to blend perfectly with the spirit that seems destined to pervade the opening of the momentous conference of the powers.

NEW YORK RAISES ITS VOICE IN FAVOR OF DISARMAMENT

New York, Nov. 11.—Representatives of labor, capital, churches, theater and the professions, raised mighty voice in favor of reducing armaments tonight when more than 10-000 persons, called together by some 400 public-spirited organizations, assembled at Madison Square garden to show their approval of the purpose of the Washington conference for the limitation of armaments.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the principal speaker, declared the people of the world expect success for the armament conference and they do not want an excuse or a reason for failure.
They are looking toward Washington with a mighty appeal, he added, and are not concerned about differences in the meaning of words.

The atmosphere of solemn reverence which found its inspiration in the national eulogy at Arlington, and the about the metropolitan area, tonight day, was broken many times tonight by thunderous cheers and hearty applause as speaker after speaker told the assemblage what the nation and the world expected from the epochal conference of nations which President Harding has called to begin tomorrow.

A resolution calling upon the conference to remain in session until it accomplishes to the fullest degree the purpose for which it was invited to convene was adopted.

"With regret and astonishment," it said, "we learn that our government spends approximately $5 cents of every dollar of revenue for past war, present armament and preparation for possible future wars. We not only petition our American representatives to use their best endeavor to win the world away from armaments, but the terrible toll of life and wealth, we demand that they succeed."

"We do not propose that America alone disarm. That would be folly and would endanger all democratic civilization. We demand international agreement, knowing that the peoples of all countries voice the convictions here expressed."

Yale-Princeton Battle
Absorbs Grid Fans Today

Undeclared Elis Face First Real Opponents—Navy and Penn State Meet on Neutral Ground—Springfield Should Be Easy For Cornell

New York, Nov. 11.—Football class of major and minor degree hold the center of the eastern gridiron tomorrow afternoon.

Overhauling all other battles in the Yale-Princeton game at New Haven, although the Navy-Penn State, Syracuse-Colgate, Pennsylvania-Dartmouth, Harvard-Brown, Amherst-Williams, Washington and Jefferson-Pittsburgh, Wesleyan-Union and Villanova-Army classes are all of more than passing football interest.

In Princeton, the undefeated Yale faces its first real opponent. Notwithstanding the string of victories accumulated by Eli this fall, the fact remains that in none of these games has the Blue been opposed by a team of the Tigers' calibre.

Yale possesses a remarkable amount of gridiron material, much of exceptional merit, but the majority of the players are newcomers, both in experience and more than half of the players who will line up against Princeton have yet to win their varsity letter.

A struggle of no less interest, but lacking the same traditions will be the meeting of the Navy and Penn State on neutral ground at Philadelphia. The Middle, with a well-nigh perfect defense, will face an offense which to date has run rough-shod over all opponents. Ability to defeat Leigh, Carnegie Tech and Georgia Tech and to outplay Harvard for a majority portion of their game, stamps the Pennsylvania team as a combination of far more than ordinary power.

Harvard is expected to use a second string combination against Brown which should make the contest more even. Dartmouth probably will have a slight edge over Pennsylvania; Springfield should be easy for Cornell; Ohio university is favored to win from Columbia; Syracuse is figured to be two touchdowns stronger than Colgate, although the latter has a habit of surprising their ancient rivals in the upstate classic and Pittsburgh is prepared for the usual hard battle with Washington and Jefferson.

VITAMINES IN MILK AND EGGS DEPEND UPON FEED

Not Safe to Assume All Eggs and All Milk Are Unfailing Sources of Vitamins.

It is not safe to assume that all milk and all eggs are satisfactory unfailing sources of vitamins. Prof. J. S. Hughes, J. B. Fitch and H. W. Carr of the Kansas State Agricultural College declared at the American Chemical society meeting in New York that the vitamin content of milk or eggs is determined largely by the quantity of vitamins in the food given the cows or hens producing the milk or eggs.

They found that, although a cow receiving dry feed low in vitamins may give a fairly abundant supply of milk, it is of such poor quality that if it is fed to her calves they will become blind and die.

In other experiments they discovered that eggs of low vitamin content laid by hens fed on low-vitamin food produce chicks that are not strong and vigorous. This fact, rather than the commonly blamed methods of incubation, may account for a large portion of the annual loss of half the eggs that the poultryman sets each year. Probably 800,000,000 eggs out of the 800,000,000 set each year in this country fail to produce strong chicks, and this represents a loss of over $12,000,000 a year.

These results indicate that as a rule the animal organism does not synthesize vitamins, but must obtain them from its food. If this is generally true, as seems probable from the experiments reported, it will not always be sufficient that the mother is nursing her baby, but she must be sure that she is obtaining sufficient vitamin-containing foods.

In the milk experiments it was found that the water-soluble or anti-neuritic vitamins and the fat-soluble vitamins were those that were lacking, but that the anti-scorbutic vitamin content was sufficient.

NATURE'S WAY WITH PESTS

One Destructive Insect Is Used to Fight Another; Each Is Capable of Useful Work.

You recall the old nursery rhyme, "This is the house that Jack built." The story of Nature's warfare runs on very much the same lines. This is the fox that ate the squirrel that stole the eggs of the magpie that killed the sparrow that devoured the fly that destroyed the caterpillar that spoiled the cabbage that grew in the house that Jack built!

Nature uses one pest to fight another. Each of the creatures mentioned is a pest; yet each is capable of useful work.

Moths and butterflies lay hundreds of eggs at a time, so that if nothing preyed on caterpillars we should soon have not a single green leaf in the country. But we must have moths and butterflies to fertilize flowers. The chief foe of the caterpillar is the ichneumon-fly, which lays eggs in him as he crawls on a leaf. These eggs hatch into grubs and kill the caterpillar.

The ichneumon-fly is eaten by small birds which do useful work in this way, though in other ways they are pests, for they eat the farmer's corn. They are kept in check by cuckoos, hawks, crows, and magpies. These birds of prey, if their growth was unchecked, would soon kill all the game in the country. Squirrels and other birds keep them down by stealing their eggs. Squirrels are preyed upon by foxes, which, as we have no wild beasts in this country, must be kept in check by man.

For Those Who Believe in Dreams. To dream of chickens, you will be the victim of a cowardly act. To eat one, you will expose a treacherous friend. To kill them, honor and glory. To cook them, you will injure a friend unintentionally.

Denmark Leads in Pigs. Ireland, supposed to be the great country for pigs, has, in fact, only one pig for every three persons, while Denmark has one pig for each two human beings.

Truth and Love Forever Young. Truth and love are in their essence forever young, and it is the hard condition of nature that they cannot always appear so.—George William Currier

$443,313,000 in Gold Brought in This Year

New York.—Gold to the value of $443,313,000 has been brought to the United States from foreign countries since the beginning of the present year, while exports of the metal for the same period have amounted to but $10,720,000, according to figures made public by the federal reserve board. Of this amount $325,380,000 was in foreign bullion, $67,447,000 in foreign coins, $25,445,000 in gold ore and base bullion and $24,293,000 in United States gold coin.

Importations of silver also showed substantial increase. During the first eight months of this year silver valued at $1,270,000 has arrived here from Germany.

FINDS CURE FOR BLEEDERS

Paris Physician Successful in Treating Disease With Use of Blood From the Horse.

"Bleeders," as they are called, generally come of families with a history of bleeding. Such sufferers are rarely cured. But Dr. P. Emile-Well of Paris reports in a bulletin of the Societe Medicale des Hopitiaux the success he has had with his treatment of the disease, which is called hemophilia. He relates the case of a child of seven, a pronounced bleeder, belonging to one of the classic bleeder families that have been written up in medical annals since the eighteenth century. He gave the boy an injection of 20 cubic centimetres of normal horse serum—that is, horse's blood with the corpuscles extracted—every second month until fifteen injections had been given. The tendency to hemorrhage seemed to be arrested, and after seven years there has been no sign of its recurrence.

Previous to this Doctor Well had treated seven cases of familiar hemophilia with such injections, all of them successfully, but he never regarded a case as wholly cured until that of this boy. But the fact that he has been free from bleeding for seven years indicates at least that this disease is curable.

First Magic Lantern.

Fakers in the old days were no less quick than their present brethren to take advantage of scientific discoveries to fool the public. In 1610, one Athanasius Kircher announced to the few German scientists of his day that he had discovered an instrument which would throw large pictures of any drawing or painting placed on it, upon a white screen. He wrote quite a treatise on this first magic lantern and called it the "Arm Magna Lucis et Umbrae."

From a scientific point of view Kircher's discovery did not make a very deep impression. But half a dozen traveling magicians somehow or other got hold of copies of the first magic lantern. They traveled far and wide through the country, and they not only scared the peasants and small-town peoples out of their wits, but by making a specialty of showing pictures of the devil, of poor souls trying in purgatory and other unpleasant subjects, they collected considerable sums in return for the promise to keep these evil spirits out of the homes of their victims.

Harum-scarum is a perfectly good word used in connection with a person who is exceedingly wild, reckless or thoughtless. The word probably originated from a combination of the two English verbs, "hare" to excite or worry, and "scarer" to frighten. Locke, in his "Essay on Education," uses "hare" as a verb in this manner: "To hare and scare them is not to teach but to wax them."

In this country, it is generally supposed that "harum-scarum" is an Americanization, due probably to Washington Irving's use of it in his "Alhambra," where he wrote: "From a walk, the horse soon passed to a trot, from a trot to a gallop and from a gallop to a harum-scarum scamper."

Mistaken in His Ideas. "Occasionally," said Senator Borah, "a politician honestly thinks he is saving the country when he is in reality engaged with all his might in self-preservation."

O. N. S. WINS DOUBLE BILL

Takes Both Games From Hobart by Wide Margin—Monahan, Bush and Dillelo Do Basket Work for Varsity Squad.

Coach Riney's O. N. S. team took Hobart into camp in great style last night at that Delaware county town the game between the two first teams resulting in a 59-23 walk-away for the visitors and the second, between the second-string players, 39 to 26.

The varsity lunch from Oneonta had things its look-in. At the end of the first half, the score stood 26 to 6 and the Oneontans continued the slaughter in the final round. Monahan, Bush and Dillelo divided the honors of the game, while Jackson did most of the basket work for the Delaware lads. Referee Fred Weeks called nine personal fouls on the Hobart lads. ACCIDENT AT DAVENPORT Automobile Skids on Wet Road and Overturns—Occupants Not Seriously Injured.

Davenport, Nov. 11.—German Berglass of Norwich and William Schneider of Brooklyn were painfully but not seriously injured when their Dodge roadster skidded on the wet road about two miles below this village at 8:30 this morning, and turned upside down. The men were going from Norwich to Brooklyn to attend the wedding of a friend of Mr. Berglass. While going down the Larrabell hill near Davenport they attempted to pass a truck going in the same direction and driven by Floyd Tenbroeck. In so doing the car skidded on the wet road, struck the bank and turned turtle.

The men were taken to Davenport by R. L. Avery where their wounds were dressed by Dr. Craig. Mr. Berg-lass was severely bruised and Mr. Schneider suffered several deep cuts about the face and head. They took a train from West Davenport for New York later in the day. The top of the car was demolished but otherwise suffered no great damage. Mr. Berglass, who was driving, claims that the entire blame for the accident rests upon him and that the driver of the truck, Mr. Tenbroeck, was in no way responsible.

A STRANGER'S SPLENDID STRUGGLE

God's Crucible tells the story of a young stranger within our gates who fought bravely to overcome the countless obstacles that confronted him,—and who won his fight.

Sometimes the story is tragic,—grimly so; sometimes it is lightened by humor that cannot fail to bring a laugh; always it is fascinating, for it probes the human heart to its depths.

The superlative direction of Henry MacRae plus a story which for action and appeal has never been surpassed and a true all-star cast make "God's Crucible" one of the biggest screen successes of this or any other season.

When Slingerlands Was "Ruxton."

The Albany Journal of last evening reprints the following from its columns of 30 years before:

"Passengers on the Albany and Saratoga railroad trains were surprised on November 2 to hear 'Ruxton' called out by the trainmen in place of Slingerlands. Today they were again surprised to hear the trainmen call out 'Slingerlands' when the trains reached that place instead of 'Ruxton.' The railroad company endeavors to please everybody the best it can, and a request having been made to change the old established name of Slingerlands to Ruxton, backed by many of the residents, the request was complied with. The old residents did not like the interference with the established name and set out to have the order canceled. They succeeded, and now the song of the trainmen is as of yore 'Slingerlands.'"

It Sounds a Dream.

Thirty years ago the present month, the exact date was Wednesday, November 16, 1891, the People's Line steamers ran a round trip excursion to New York and return, for one dollar. The excursion was announced, "will give everyone an opportunity to see the horse show in Madison Square Garden, Central park, art galleries, and other attractions of the great city."

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 1-6 and 3-6

LOCAL EDITORIAL NOTES.

After the Election.

There are things to be grateful for in almost any election and certainly this is the case in that of Tuesday last in Oneonta. It was for one thing a quiet campaign, devoid of either personal or partisan bitterness. There was little if anything on either side of which one could complain and at the end there was therefore little to store up for unkindly remembrance. The morning after the election, therefore, rose on a people of whom thought it could not be said that all were satisfied, for that thing has perhaps never happened since the "era of good feeling," now more than a hundred years ago, at least was one which had little if anything reasonably to complain about.

Divided Responsibility.

But if not to complain about, there is something at least to consider and perhaps with some sense of satisfaction and that is that neither party in the next two years can be held solely responsible for possible failures or successes. With the mayor and two aldermen of one party and with four aldermen on the other, there is perhaps as nearly equitable division of authority as could be attained. Under these circumstances and with the bipartisan requirements of the charter as regards the various boards, it would be futile under any circumstances to suggest or imply that either party was in the saddle alone, or that either should be blamed or credited solely with blame or praise. The coming administration will be one in which there will be equal responsibility and equal opportunity.

The Soldier Amendment.

The majority against the soldier amendment, on this it appears now to have been quite general in the state, was doubtless a source of disappointment and of dissatisfaction to many, not only of the soldiers themselves but of others who believed that the service which they rendered should have some substantial recognition. On the other side, it may be said that the vote was probably not in any way as significant of opposition to a debt form, quantity or quality of recognition as to what some may have felt to be an unbalanced one, which in its endeavor to do substantial justice to those directly interested did not take into consideration what is due to present faithful incumbents of office in the way of promotion and to the needs of the service itself. If, either in the way of a constitutional amendment, or a legislative act, if the latter is possible, a measure could be adopted providing a graduated scale of points favoring the soldiers, it would have much to commend it. Such an act, giving, say, from two to ten extra points on a scale of 100 to service men and women, varying with the period or class of service, would no doubt be generally commended. It would give a fair recognition to the soldiers themselves and at the same time would work no material injustice to others, or to the public service as a whole. And for it, should it come to the people for vote, there is reason to believe there would be a substantial majority.

FOR FARMERS OF DELAWARE

Results of Farm and Home Conference at the State School of Agriculture in Delhi.

The High School Livestock Judging contest held at the State School of Agriculture last Friday was the largest affair of its sort that has ever been held in Delhi. Nine high schools sent teams. In many cases the teachers accompanied the boys. The contest at Delhi so far as we are aware had a larger number of competitors than any of its sort ever held in any of the schools of this state.

It is not yet possible to announce the results. Gowen, Benedict and Oxford seem, however, to have been the winners. A complete report will be available next week.

Farmers' day, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 3 and 4, called out a good number of farmers considering the busy season. The Community meeting Thursday night had an attendance of between two and three hundred. An informal lunch helped to get people acquainted. The spirit of the meeting showed excellent cooperation between the village and the farmers of the community. Excellent addresses were given by Dr. Robinson, Russell Graham and Hon. Lincoln B. Long. Mr. Graham spoke of the ways in which the business men and farmers might cooperate for mutual benefit. His suggestions for future work received the commendation of all.

The Women's program on Thursday emphasized particularly Health in the Rural Community and was especially well attended. A course of monthly agricultural lectures at the school is proposed.

The Foultry show had the largest number of entries ever made at the school.

Money for Delaware County Road.
The attorney general of the state has decided that $180,000 of the unexpended bond issue of 1912, which was apportioned at that time for the building of a road from Hancock to Fort Jervis, known as Route 3-A, but which was never built, must be expended on this route only.

Oneonta Again Lined.

Oneonta is again being lighted by electricity from the Delaware and Otsego Light and Power company. The wires that were cut a week ago have been connected. The service has been greatly improved by changes at the power house.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

A Use for the Falling Leaves.

A month from now the man who so blithely burns the leaves that fall in his yard will have to pay out $10 or so for straw to cover his garden and put around the base of the shrubs. He will grumble at the price. He will give his opinion of the man from whom he has to buy the straw.

Not so the wise man these November days when the leaves drop from the trees. Each day he takes care of the yard, for he knows their value. Leaves weren't made to burn, they were made to give food to the earth. They are nature's means to enrich the soil.

The man who in his gardening generation stores the leaves now against a day when he will have to cover his garden beds to protect the perennials for the winter. Then he will spread the leaves on the beds, and around the shrubs and evergreens, wetting them down with the hose so they won't blow away, and forget all about his garden, sure in the knowledge that he has saved his plants, enriched the soil of the beds, and prevented his evergreens from being winterkilled.

The man who burns his leaves is burning money in his own pocket if he has a garden.—[Worcester Telegram.]

The Indian's Tribute.

One of the picturesque incidents of the ceremonies at Arlington on Friday will be the tribute of the American Indian to the unknown soldier. After wreaths have been placed on the tomb by a member of the house of representatives, a British war mother, and an American war mother, an Indian chief will step forward and lay his war bonnet and his coup stick on the last resting place of the unknown. The coup stick is the baton of the Indian warrior; the war bonnet, each feather of which represents some deed of valor, his helmet.

That the red man, 17,000 of whose blood went into the great war, should be thus signally represented on Armistice day is due largely to the efforts of Rodman Wanamaker, founder and president of the National American Indian Memorial association, which for years has worked for the welfare of the Indian as well as for the preservation of the things that tell of his history. The Indian tribute will be another scene in the remarkable drama of November 11.—[New York Herald.]

General March's Retirement.

Major General Peyton C. March, chief of staff during the world war, and a distinguished Pennsylvanian, has been formally notified from the army at his own request to resign his American's important achievements of General March are practically unknown. This is largely due to the fact that he was compelled to remain in Washington during the war, and was denied his wish to be in France. But soldiers must take their orders without protest, and this one made a splendid record. Secretary Weeks, in accepting his resignation, said that General March's achievements in successfully transporting millions of our men to the other side was unparalleled.—[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

No Chance for a Sales Tax.

It is obvious as matters stand that Senator Smoot's sales-tax amendment to the revenue bill has no chance of adoption. The senate's two decisive votes against it were contributed to by nearly as many Republicans as Democrats. The Republican leader in the house, Mr. Mondell, has declared that that body is "unalterably" opposed to the proposition "at the present time." Chairman Fordney, of the ways and means committee, has said the same thing.—[New York World.]

Power of Plain Americans.

The people's interest in the preservation of peace lately has been revived, such as it never before received. The conference to be held in Washington is overwhelming evidence of that recognition, for neither Mr. Harding, Secretary Hughes, Senator Dwyer nor Senator Lodge would deny that in its essentials it was conceived in the minds of millions of plain Americans who refused to be silenced until their plan had had a fair trial. The significance of this great popular participation in the affairs of nations scarcely can be overestimated, for it is nothing more or less than the beginning of a new and saner control of vital world relationships.—[Saturday Evening Post.]

SUPERVISORS OF LONG AGO

Who Represented Otsego Townships Fifty-Five and Forty Years Ago.

A reader of The Star has conferred a favor by leaving at this office a list of the men who as supervisors represented the several townships in the year 1855—now fifty-five years ago. The members of the county legislature at that time were:

Burlington—Danforth Bolton.
Butternuts—James Blackman.
Cherry Valley—David Bates.
DeCATUR—Eugene Barnes.
Edinboro—Solomon Hoxie.
Eaton—Edward Ames.
Hartwick—William Davidson.
Lawrence—William C. Fields.
Maryland—Harvey Brown.
Middlefield—William H. Ely.
Milford—David Wilber.
Morris—S. W. Murdock.
New Lisbon—William Deming.
Oneonta—John Cope Jr.
Otsego—Levi Coblurn.
Otego—J. L. Leaning.
Pittsfield—Charles Medbury.
Plainfield—S. H. Gates.
Richfield—A. L. Elwood.
Roseboom—L. N. Walker.
Springfield—Daniel Gilchrist.
Tadoussac—Joseph Curtis.
Westford—Raymond Saxton.
Worcester—Nelson Thurber.

A perusal of this list does not reveal the name of a single man known at this time to be living. Perhaps the last to expire was S. W. Murdock, who spent the last thirty years of his life in Oneonta, dying in February, 1918. The supervisors of forty years ago, as their names appear in the reports of proceedings for the year 1851, were as follows:

Burlington—N. A. Marcy.
Butternuts—Edmund Shaw.
Cherry Valley—John Gilday.
DeCATUR—Charles Goodell.
Edinboro—H. C. Hooker.
Eaton—William Roe.
Hartwick—W. H. Branch.
Lawrence—J. G. Richardson.
Maryland—James M. Thompson.
Middlefield—Peter Parshall.
Milford—Abram S. Beeher.
Morris—John A. Ward.
New Lisbon—G. W. Russell.
Oneonta—J. R. L. Walling.
Otego—E. J. Rathbun.
Otsego—W. A. Thayer.
Pittsfield—Levi Thayer.
Plainfield—Delos E. Bass.
Richfield—Peter Seeber.
Roseboom—G. C. Griffin.
Springfield—S. M. Ingalls.
Tadoussac—Frank B. Arnold.
Westford—J. R. Saxton.
Worcester—Merville Griggs.

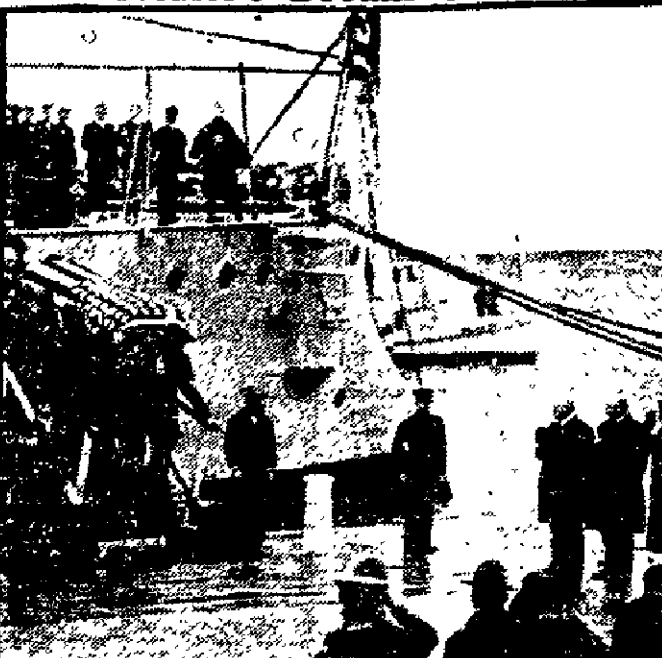

In that year the board consisted of 12 Republicans and 12 Democrats, and there was naturally a contest for organization of the board. On the first day S. M. Ingalls of Springfield was made temporary chairman, and after a night of dickering, balloting for permanent organization was begun on the morning of November 15, the second day. On this ballot S. M. Ingalls received the 12 Democratic and Frank B. Arnold of Unadilla, later state senator, the 12 Republican votes. Balloting continued without result through morning and afternoon, but in the evening an agreement was reached. The 24 names, written on slips, were placed in a box and the county clerk withdrew one of them. It proved to bear the name of Mr. Ingalls, and as Mr. Ingalls remained on the next ballot from voting, Mr. Arnold was made chairman of the board. W. Cary Ely of Worcester, a Democrat, was in accordance with the agreement, made clerk; and as many will recall, he subsequently removed to Buffalo, where he became a leading attorney, settling later in New York.

As readers will note, a number of the members of the 1851 board are still living, some of them in Oneonta. Charles Goodell, then a young man, was representative of the "State" of DeCATUR. This was his first experience in the board, but later, moving to Worcester, he returned as its representative, and has doubtless served more terms than any other living supervisor, if not in fact any such supervisor, living or dead.

Broome County Fee at $3.
Members of the Broome County Farm Bureau decided against raising the annual dues to $5, and left them at $3.

At the Busy Fish market, bullheads, haddock, white fish, steak trout, pike, etc., salmon, cod, oysters, clams, smoked haddock, salt cod, Nelson's market, South Main street. adv 2t

The Soldier's Dream Comes True

Dreaming of a triumphant return, America's Unknown went forth to death. Yet his dream came true. From the decks of the historic Olympia, his flag-draped casket was borne to his native land while fellow warriors and high dignitaries of the nation, headed by Secretary of War Weeks, Secretary of the Navy Denby, and General Pershing (extreme right) stood at attention.

HIGH SCHOOL PRIZE CONTESTS

Students Will Compete in Columbia University Speaking and Essay Contests.

The Oneonta High school will be represented in the Columbia university interschool speaking and essay contests to be held during the present academic year. It has been announced by Principal H. J. VanDeusen. The High school has been represented in former years in the speaking contest but this year will be the first that entry has been made in the essay contest. The contests are open to boys only. Several youths are being trained for the speaking contest and a number of essays are in course of preparation.

The prize speaking contest will be held in Earl hall, Columbia university on the evening of January 12, 1922, and will have for its purpose the stimulation of interest in public speaking in the secondary schools of the state. The prizes will be $100, $50 and $25, respectively. The winner of the first prize may, in lieu of the cash prize of $100, have a scholarship for his next year in Columbia college. It will not be possible to accommodate more than ten speakers. In the contest, so preliminary contests have been arranged at a series of centers in order to determine who shall represent a given locality. The preliminary contest for this district will be held at Linghamton on January 6. The winners of the preliminary contests will go to Columbia as guests of the university, transportation and entertainment being provided. The orations presented must be original and argumentative rather than descriptive and must not consume more than ten minutes in delivery.

The essay contest is held in the hope of stimulating interest in the writing of English among school boys and will be open to boys in schools having alumni or former students in Columbia during the academic year 1921-1922. The prizes will be $100, $50 and $25 and the winner of the first prize will have the same option as in the speaking contest. No more than one essay from any school will be accepted in the final competition but it is hoped that there will be school competition so that the essay entered will be representative of the school as a whole. The subject is "The Place of Athletics in Education," a question upon which most young men, whether athletes or not, have definite opinions. The essay must not contain more than 1,500 words and must be submitted to the secretary of the university before January 1, 1922. The judges will be professors in the English department of the university.

Compliment to Mayor-Elect.

Sidney friends derive a great deal of satisfaction in the election of Mr. Clarence C. Miller to the office of mayor of Oneonta, as a result of Tuesday's election. Mr. Miller is a former Sidney boy, well-known and esteemed by the older residents of our village. Mr. Miller is a successful and popular business man in Oneonta, conducting a large electrical supply store in that city. All good wishes for a successful term of office are extended.—[Sidney Record.]

"SOME GIRL" TUESDAY NIGHT.
Musical Comedy Will Be Distinctive Treat for Music Lovers.
Under its fitting title, "Some Girl," this musical comedy oddity will be revealed at the Oneonta theatre Tuesday, Nov. 15. Of fairy-like construction, but modern in its happily drawn mixture of personalities, artfully novel in its pretty preservation of the romantic fairy theme, with a fine organization of musical comedy interpreters and a chorus that can both sing and dance and is said to justify—as much as earthly maidens might—their selection for representing "sun-goddesses," this diverting entertainment has struck loudly the keynote of popular favor and will doubtless afford local patrons of the play one of the most enjoyable evenings they have had in a long while.
Musical lovers will be interested in the following selected from the list of popular tunes abounding in the score: "My Sunshine Lady," "In 1920," "The Song I Sang When I Was Twenty-One," "When the Whistle Blew for Home Sweet Home," "I Miss You, Honey, 'Deed I Do," "Love Needs Oposition," "Mystic Magic Man," "Mere Man," "Dixieland Is Calling You," "Cupid's Sweeties," "What's the Use of Lovin'," "A Night at the Riviera," and "Anything to Make a Picture Now-a-days."

Seat sale at the box office Monday morning. Phone 1079.

Miss Ellen VanClef, who for the past year has been Otsego county home demonstration agent, has resigned her position, much to the regret of home bureau members. Miss VanClef's resignation is caused by the death of her sister, for she now feels that she is needed at her home in Seneca Falls.

Yes, I know that most of you are and that you don't know, think or care a darn that I'm paying big wages to small amounts safely placed with me and to the tune of over $110,000.00 each year. Its just like finding it, and the best part of my life and let live game is, that in my compound interest plan I have handed back several million dollars to little fellows—and am now this safely rolling up four million more. I take small or large amounts and safely give little fellows a chance to get homes and farms on easy monthly payments and so that the rent money pays for them. Go on with your so called swell time, but in the round-up you'll be whining, complaining and cursing and my little fellows will make you look like thirty cents. Its no undue gain to me or to those who help me. Can you see a hole in a ladder? Good day. I'm the safe and sane Oneonta Building & Loan association. advt 11

CITY HONORS UNKNOWN HERO

AMERICAN LEGION CEREMONIES AT HUNTINGTON PARK ATTENDED BY LARGE CONCOURSE OF CITIZENS.
Simple Yet Impressive Tribute Paid to Him of Whom "We Know Not Whence He Came, But Only That His Death Marks Him With the Everlasting Glory of an American Dying for His Country."

The body of the Unknown American Soldier lies at rest in the hallowed ground of Arlington National cemetery and Oneonta has, in common with the rest of the nation, paid its tribute to him who typifies the republic's heroic war dead. With bowed heads and hearts full of gratitude and solemn reverence, Oneonta, as represented by an assemblage that, despite the chill and damp of the day, crowded many ranks deep about the plaza in Huntington park, stood in silence for two minutes while the body of the warrior was being lowered into the grave and then turned its attention to a supplementary program highly appropriate to the occasion.
Simple yet deeply impressive was the tribute to the sacred memory of those brave men who sleep but to wake in greater glory. Former comrades in the service, mothers, fathers and friends—all united in expressing their debt of gratitude and love. The ceremonies were sponsored and conducted by the American legion, but the observance was not confined to legion members—rather it was a community affair in which all classes and ages participated.

The legion met at the armory at 11:15 o'clock and, escorted by city officials, Company G in command of Captain P. M. H. Jackson, Company G band, and representatives of the Spanish War Veterans, marched to Huntington park by way of Fairview, Main, Chestnut and Church streets. At Academy street the school children of the city joined the procession and at the entrance to the park the Boy Scouts held in line. The ceremonies were held on the concrete plaza facing Church street, the organizations participating forming a semi-circle.
Promptly at 11:45 o'clock Commander A. L. Bergan of the American legion opened the ceremonies with brief but fitting remarks in which he called attention to the nature of the observance and outlined the fundamental purposes of the legion. "The Star Spangled Banner" was then played while the assemblage stood in silence and at attention. Following the invocation by the post chaplain, Rev. Frank L. Coughney, "Attention," blown by the bugler precisely at noon began the two-minute period of silence requested by President Harding to be observed throughout the country while the body of the Unknown Soldier was being lowered into the grave. With lowered heads the gathering stood in silent reverence. Following the two minutes of tribute, Mr. Coughney gave in the nature of a commitment service, after which a salute to the dead was fired by a squad from Company G and "Taps" was blown. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," sung by the assemblage under the leadership of Jerry Wilson preceded the reading by Dr. J. C. Smith of the address which President Harding was delivering at the same time at Arlington. The speech, a masterpiece of thought and expression, in which President Harding said of the Unknown Soldier that "We know not whence he came, but only that his death marks him with the everlasting glory of an American dying for his country," is printed in full in another part of The Star. Dr. Smith read the address in a manner which made its thought doubly impressive.

Benediction pronounced by Mr. Coughney ended a program which has had no equal in the city's history for importance and meaning. It was Oneonta's personal tribute to the unknown hero and a part of the paying of the highest honors bestowed upon an individual since the formation of the republic. The unknown warrior but typified the thousands of our war dead, however, and it was to those men that the tribute was really paid—a tribute of reverence, affection and honor.

AMERICA'S DYE INDUSTRY

And Its Relation to the National Defense Entertainingly and Instructively Discussed by L. I. Holdredge Before the Fortnightly Club.

Lough I. Holdredge was the speaker before the Fortnightly club at its first meeting of the season held at the residence of R. E. Dutcher, 11 Central avenue, last evening. The attendance being gratifying, and they were rewarded with a very instructive and interesting paper on "The Relation of the Synthetic Dye Industry to National Defense."
Mr. Holdredge endeavored to clarify the more or less mystery that has surrounded the dye industry in the lay mind and to show that it is important to the national defense that the industry be developed and fostered in this country to the end that we be not dependent upon foreign products and that we have these plants which can quite readily be transformed into factories for the manufacture of high explosives, the consistent elements of which are the same as those which are the foundation of the dyes now in common use.

Opening his address Mr. Holdredge said: "The layman who has, casually come into contact with synthetic color manufacture, concludes instinctively that there must necessarily be a great variety of operations involved in an industry that deals with complex compounds and yields products whose numbers run far into the thousands. The precise contrary is, however, the case. Elementary materials are few in number and equally few are the chemical and mechanical operations required to transform them into an almost endless number of shades and tints. Five elementary substances only, carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen and sulphur. Others play only minor parts."

The speaker illustrated with a chart the result of soft coal being broken up by heat without access to air and the 18 crude substances obtained, representing only a small percentage of the weight of the coal. The speaker then explained how these substances, for instance, carbon, uniting with other atoms form an infinite variety of compounds, the study of which has been called organic chemistry.
From these 18 crudes secured, some 300 intermediate products analogous to aniline are manufactured. From these, in turn, are made some 900 dyes which are sold under 5,000 different brands. The 1913 report of the U. S. customs listed 5,674 distinct brands of synthetic dyes, imported chiefly from Germany.

The chemical operations by which this manufacture is accomplished are so varied that it is impossible to give a complete list. Were one of you to visit a dye or intermediate factory, said the speaker, you would doubtless be impressed with the large iron kettles, either water-jacketed, for cooling, or equipped with steam coils or other heating device, the tops bolted on and provided with mechanical stirrer. These, your guides would designate as nitrate, sulphonic, or fusion kettles. Long racks containing wooden or iron frames covered with cloth through which solutions were being pumped you would be told were the filter presses. Large wooden tubs, so arranged, that solutions could be made to flow from one side to the other would be conspicuously in evidence, centrifuges, similar to those used in the modern laundry and drying chambers would be scattered through the building and in some part of the plant would be located the stills heated by

ARMISTICE DAY AT SCHOOLS.

Patriotic Programs Excellently Rendered in City Schools Thursday.

The ceremonies held at the High school and the Center street school Thursday as a part of the Armistice day observance in the city were well attended by parents and friends of the students and proved to be most interesting and enjoyable. The programs were exceptionally well rendered and showed that the school children are fully alive to the importance and solemnity of the occasion.
The High school students held their exercises in the auditorium at 11:45. An attractive program, arranged under the supervision of Miss Cowan, was well rendered. During the two minutes set aside for silent tribute to the hero dead the students sat with bowed heads. The grade pupils held their observance at 2:30, giving the excellent program printed in Thursday's Star. The intermediate grades at the Center street school gave a program of patriotic songs and recitations at 2 o'clock.

There was no formal observance in the other city schools, but in each grade the Flag Salute was given and William Tyler Page's Americans' Creed was read.

closed steam coils attached each to its condenser cooled by running water. These together with the power and steam plants constitute the mechanical appliances.

Later, in his discussion on the subject, Mr. Holdredge made more special reference to the relation of the industry to the national defense, showing how Germany was able to turn her dye making plants into factories for the manufacture of the explosive needed in the prosecution of the war and suggesting that America will do well to encourage the industry and make ourselves independent of any foreign country and also protecting ourselves against the day of need.

Following there was the usual discussion in which the suggestions made by Mr. Holdredge were quite uniformly approved. Later lunch was served and cigars passed and the remaining half hour passed equally enjoyably.

Funeral of James Gardner.

A large number of friends, neighbors and fellow workmen at the deceased were present yesterday afternoon at the funeral of the late James Gardner, held at the family home, 22 March street. Many of these, and some who were unable to be present, gave evidence of their sorrow by sending flowers. The organizations thus represented were the Oneonta Fire department, D. & H. Fire department, Veteran firemen, Machinists' lodge, No. 71, employees of the Oneonta Silk company and St. James' guild.

The service was in charge of Rev. L. Curtis Denney, pastor of St. James' church, of which Mr. Gardner was a member. He conducted the impressive ritual of the Protestant Episcopal church. Following the service, the funeral party proceeded to the Plains cemetery, where interment took place. The bearers, all Veteran firemen, were

M. J. Hickey, Albert Baum, Fred Howard, Edward Reynolds, William H. Safford and Frank Perk.

Relatives from out of the city present at the funeral included W. M. Gardner, son and daughter, of Albany; Mrs. Patrick Manning and Mrs. John Dwyer of Canandaigua, Pa.; and Mrs. Thomas Spohn and Mrs. Maudie Backus of Portlandville.

THE BEST IN LEGION HISTORY

MORE THAN 500 THROUGH ARMY FLOOR AT AMERICAN LEGION BALL LAST NIGHT.

Third Annual Dance Conducted by Oneonta Post of the Legion a Conspicuous Success—Music Excellent, Decorations Attractive, and Refreshments Satisfying—Many Spectators Watch Merry Throng.

The best Armistice day ball ever conducted by the legion and one of the most enjoyable social events ever held in the city was the verdict of the more than 500 couples who thronged the armory floor last evening at the third annual military ball of Oneonta post, No. 27, American legion. It is doubtful if more people ever danced on the armory floor at one time, and it is certainly a fact that no better time was ever had at any function of its kind in the city.

It was known from the large number of tickets sold that there would be a large attendance at the ball, but no one was prepared for the throng that swung out onto the floor whenever the orchestra started a number.
The supply of programs soon ran out and the punch containers were emptied many times. There were also a large number of spectators, people to whom modern dancing is perhaps more or less of a mystery, but who find pleasure in watching the enjoyment of others. The gallery was crowded through the evening and room along the sides of the hall was at a premium.

The music by Page's Big Six orchestra from Cornell university was excellent. The crowd was insatiable as regards dancing, calling upon the orchestra for repetition of numbers so many times that finally the leader was forced to announce that because of lack of time each dance could last only a certain number of minutes.
Twenty dances were played and each was enjoyed to the utmost.
Of much pleasure to dancers and onlookers alike were the singing and dancing of the versatile musicians.
The drummer was as clever with his feet as with his instrument and executed several steps that would have frustrated the performance of any terpischore artist.

The huge drill shed presented an especially attractive appearance. The var-colored dresses of the ladies and the uniforms of Legion members made, against the decorations, of palms and Allied flags, a kaleidoscope of color, ever changing as the dancers glided to and fro in the evolutions of the fox trot or waltz. A feature of the decorative scheme was an enormous American flag draped from the balcony at the rear of the hall.

The committee in charge of the dance, headed by Earle P. Elmore, is to be congratulated upon their successful efforts. A great deal of hard work was involved, of which evidence was at hand on every side. Not only was the forgotten and nothing left undone which would have increased the success of the dance an iota. The punch ran out several times but that was neither the fault of the committee nor of the Boston Candy kitchen, which had the lunch concession. It was a remarkably enjoyable affair from the first dance until the last and one that will linger long in the memories of those in attendance.

New Berlin Party Motoring to Oneonta Meets With Accident.

A New Berlin correspondent writes as follows:

Wednesday night, William Guile Jr., in his father's touring car, was taking Miss Schermerhorn, daughter, Burns and Miss Ella Barker, an employee at the Eagle hotel, to Oneonta to see a relative who is ill. About six miles west of Oneonta, they came to a creek which was about 15 or 20 feet deep or into a bank sharply.
He chose the latter course and the car striking the bank turned over, throwing only one occupant out. Burns was the most severely injured, receiving several bad cuts about the face, a wrenched back and internal injuries.
Her mother was also bruised and shaken up. Guile received injuries about his body. Miss Barker escaped unharmed. One rear wheel and windshield were smashed.

Welfare of Immigrants.

the welfare of immigrants coming its work at Ellis Island. It will probably be engaged there for some time, since the greatest number of complaints have naturally come from that station which receives the greatest number of newcomers, but Boston and New York will later come in for attention.—[Philadelphia Record.]

SMOOTH SCHEME DIDN'T WORK

Statesman Just a Little Bit Too Obedient in Wrapping Up That Marriage Present

A local celebrity whose meanness was a by-word felt obliged to make a present to one of his lady friends on the occasion of her marriage.

He entered a crockery shop for the purpose of making a purchase. Seeing a valuable statuette broken into a dozen pieces lying on the counter, he asked the price. The salesman said it was worthless, but he could have it for the cost of packing it in a box.

The mean one directed it to be sent with his card to the lady, congratulating himself that she would imagine it was broken while on its way to her.

He was at her house when the box arrived, but the effect was hardly what he had expected. The tradesman had carefully wrapped each piece in a separate sheet of paper—London Tit-Bits.

Successful Idea for the Employment of a Vacuum Is the Dream of All Balloonists.

In the opinion of a French expert in aeronautics, the future of dirigible balloons lies in successfully solving the employment of vacuum as a floating power.

"Lighter than air" practical experimenting has been for years along the line of using gases lighter than the atmosphere. If, however, (as has been long known, of course) a light envelope incasing a partial vacuum could be arrived at, strong enough so that the terrific outside pressure of the atmosphere were resisted, the balloon would then possess an excess of buoyancy, and the present cost of inflatable material would be largely eliminated.

At the present moment two Italian engineers are conducting negotiations and experiments with the French government on the basis of new inventions on the vacuum theory. The perfection of deflation, as over against inflation, would indeed revolutionize flying; the world awaits with interest the results of the experiments in France.

The Artillery Fern.

There is a curious and wonderful little plant, so rare that few people have ever seen it outside of botanical collections, which is called the "artillery fern."

This flower behaves in a very strange fashion when it is dipped in water. The branch of fern, covered with its small red seed when held up to the light after being dipped in water, resists the action of the water upon it in a funny way. First one day bud will explode suddenly with a sharp crack, scattering its yellow dust into the air. Then another bud will burst in the same way, until the entire branch will be covered with exploding buds, like miniature cannon.

A sharp "crack" followed by a wee puff of smoke! This always occurs after the plant is watered.

Harding's Letter

This is Warren Harding Miller, of Brooklyn, and his mother. When President Harding heard about the naming of the child in his honor, he wrote the baby a letter passing the honor back to the Miller family.

The president told the child to grow up to be a man worthy of his father, Lieut. Harry Miller of the U. S. Marines.

Something in the bear's gut aroused the scout's suspicion. Putnam obeyed the general's orders. He challenged three times and then fired. A loud growling and struggling noise followed and when the scout rushed forward he found the bear in its death agony. Then he turned the animal over. Enclosed in the shaggy skin, still clutching a tomahawk but stone dead, lay a giant Indian.

The mystery was solved. The other sentinels had believed it was a real bear they heard and allowed the daring warrior to get near enough to use his tomahawk before they learned their mistake. No more sentinels disappeared.

Some time after this event, Putnam was captured by the Indians, who started to burn him at the stake. Just as the flames began to scorch his buckskin garments, a heavy rain began to fall and put out the fire. The savages collected more dry wood and again began the torture. But again they were foiled.

A French officer appeared upon the scene, dashed through the ring of flame, kicked the blazing brands right and left and released the scout, telling the Indians that he must send Putnam to Montreal to be questioned by General Montcalm. Putnam was held in Canada until an exchange of prisoners allowed him to return to his home and he lived to become a famous general in the Revolution.

BULLETINS FOR FARM FOLKS

Issued by Cornell and Free to Residents of New York State — Hour obtained.

Correspondence received here in connection with the revision of mailing lists at the college of agriculture indicates that many persons in the state do not know of the service which the college renders through its publications. For the past half-dozen years the state has expended on an average of about $50,000 to make known the results of its investigations. The publications at the college of agriculture are free to residents of New York state. They will be sent on request, or persons may have their names listed to receive bulletins on topics in which they are interested. There is, however, no indiscriminate listing; those who wish to get publications are asked to designate one or more of the following topics: Livestock, dairy, the soil, flowers, poultry, bees, forestry, fruit growing, home gardening, farm crops, country life. There is a separate list for home economics bulletins.

The publications are classified in a number of series but there are only two main divisions. One of these is the scientific group of those intended particularly for persons making scientific investigations.

The Popular Bulletins.

The second group contains the so-called popular bulletins, which are written for persons on the farm and in the home. A post card to the college will bring any requested publication, or a list of all those which are available for distribution.

Among those which have recently been issued are the following: H 133 "Saving Strength in the Household," H 139 "Permanent Gains from the Food Conservation Movement," H 125 "Fireless and Steam Pressure Cookers," H 137 "The Home Laundry," F 159 "Forest Planting on the Farm," E 45 "Cornell Poultry Bulletin," E 44 "Cider and Its Preservation," E 49 "Improving Old Pastures."

Why Brick Are High.

Three years ago on the Hudson river there were 118 brick manufacturing plants producing annually 1,200,000,000 common brick. About half of these plants were operated on leases. Today there are only 55 yards operating, of which the majority are owned and operated by experts. Most of the leased yards which supplied the New York market have been idle since 1915. Brick could not be operated again without being fitted with new machinery. There is no way for this industry to be profitable. It is said, until the leaseholders are forced to surrender their lease, the industry will not be revived.

The plant was built as a cooperative enterprise but got into financial difficulties through over expansion and was forced into bankruptcy.

In the hearing before the court of appeals at Albany, David F. Lee of Norwich asked for reversal of trial in the case of Herbert W. Smith, the Ninotch Junction murderer. His grounds are that the court failed to instruct as to the degrees of homicide, that the court misinstructed the jury as to the law, that the district attorney made improper remarks in his closing address and that the sheriff erred in permitting the jury to demonstrate a pair of handcuffs furnished by him and which were not in evidence.

D. S. Johnson esq., of Oneonta, Neb., asked the hearing for information relative to the heirs of a man named Thompson, who died in Oneonta and is believed to have had relatives in Otsego county. All that is known is that he was born in Scotland, and that his father died and his mother married a Presbyterian minister in the early sixties. Mr. Thompson's full name is not given. He died intestate and left several thousand dollars.

COOKING WILD GAME

If Properly Cleaned and Soaked. Strong Taste Disagreeable to Some Will be Avoided.

Utica, Nov. 10. — With the opening of the hunting season, some housewives are asking how to cook wild game. The home economists working at the state college of agriculture here have accordingly prepared the following suggestions:

The game flavor of rabbit, squirrel, venison and some kinds of wild duck, which is disagreeable to some persons, may be modified or entirely overcome by soaking the dressed meat for several hours in salt water, vinegar and water, or in water to which several vegetables or herbs have been added. One gallon of water, a few slices of onion and carrot or a tablespoon of cloves and one-half cup of vinegar and one tablespoon of whole peppers makes a good marinating liquid. Chopped green peppers or orange or lemon peel may also be used.

Dress Game Carefully.

All game should be carefully dressed and thoroughly washed. If it is not drawn for several days after being killed, it should be washed with soda water and allowed to soak in soda water for one hour or more before cooking. Two teaspoons of soda to two quarts of water is the proper proportion.

In dressing rabbit or squirrel, great care should be exercised that no hair comes in contact with the meat. Most of the fat should be removed from the game before cooking, as much of the strong flavor of the meat is in the fat.

Thorough Cooking Necessary.

All game, to be palatable, must be thoroughly cooked.

Boiling rabbit or squirrel for twenty minutes before trying or broiling makes the meat more delicate in flavor than if fried without boiling.

Vegetables having a decided flavor as onions, turnips, peppers and celery are good to serve with game. Fruit jellies or salads are also desirable adjuncts to a game dinner.

Opposing Dairymen Meet.

Dairymen who oppose the Dairymen's League Cooperative association and those who oppose the "pooling" plan will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Catholic Union hall, William B. Pratt of Utica will speak on the object of the Non-Pooling Dairymen's association, recently organized in Utica. Other speakers will be Clark W. Halliday, president of the Albany Southern Dairymen's League; George W. Whitbeck, secretary, and dairymen and L. A. Rose of Albany.

More than 200 dairymen from many sections of the state attended the meeting in Utica several weeks ago, when the Non-Pooling Dairymen's association was formed. — [Albany Journal.
